

Norman, Nancy and family:

We got together in the prayer meeting and paid tribute to your mother.

You mentioned in the meeting that your mother's life was one fulfilling life she lived. And that is solacing. At the end of her life, when time came to give the life back, she gave it back graciously in sleep and, that's even more solacing. Caring mother that she was, she made sure that children didn't go through those most grief-filled, unbearable moments at the time of her last breathing. Isn't that incredible? We see in that, mother's true and selfless love for children.

We shared the grief while we were together and wished that that sharing left with you additional strength to bear the loss even after we all the attendees left. However still, there would be moments when all of a sudden, from nowhere, grief would roll down. Sadness will take over. In yours' those moments, we want you to know, that you are not alone. We and our prayers are with you.

You are gifted with good voice and musical talent. Mother knew it well and you sang her favorite song every time you saw her. You sang that in the prayer meeting as well. We are certain she was listening to you then too. And, we are also sure that she would listen every time you think of her and sing the song. Mother has a way to stay with children for ever. Her body leaves as it must but, her love, caring and virtues never leave. Through those she stays with family members always. The moment you remember her, she would be there with you, for you.

In Prayers....
