

Dear Ashley,

You must be progressively getting back on your feet (literally; no pun!). We wish you a quick complete recovery.

For a doctor, to be a patient is a unique opportunity, isn't it? To be on other side of the table has a redeeming factor that it could make a doctor even better doctor going forward!

The forced rest might seem boring but not able to relentlessly 'on the go' offers a unique opportunity too! (Wow, two in a row!) It provides the opportunity to taste the sweet fruit of routinely sparing time to slow down and experience the joy of it.

Enjoy getting better and that too fast, we wish again.
